Lodore Falls Hotel & Spa showcases contemporary design following £10m redevelopment

Nestled in the heart of the Lake District's beautiful Borrowdale valley, Lodore Falls Hotel & Spa has undergone a multi-million-pound redevelopment, including a new state-of-the-art spa.

The new Falls Spa has been designed with guests' comfort and relaxation in mind, featuring Scandi-inspired décor and bespoke designer furniture. The purpose, style and mood of the spa according to each room's function have been carefully considered. Furnishings and light fixtures by Tom Dixon and Moooi help blend streamlined Scandinavian style and British countryside sophistication.

The overall ambience of the spa's Champagne Bar is a moody, Scandinavian revival, reflected through its elegant light fixtures exclusively designed by George Cawardine for Anglepoise, Chen Bikovski for Compagnie and Terence Woodgate. The upholstery is all bespoke leather and fabric sourced from Skai, Warwick, Osborne and Little and Casamance.

Guests are welcomed into the spa reception by stylish upholstered furniture, designed by Tom Dixon and Graham and Green, boasting custom-made velvets, tweeds and dobbie weaves, showcasing the best of elegant British design. Guests feel the harnessing power of nature as the earthy hues of the spa bring the outside in – the khaki, aqua and chartreuse colour palette is intended to complement the environment whilst remaining fresh and contemporary.

The spa's Relaxation Room bridges the gap between interior and exterior through its floor-to-ceiling windows that fill the room with natural light and offer guests breath-taking panoramic views over the stunning fells, forest and lake. This room is designed to be more soothing and restful, with Anthracite panelling, Faux Shagreen ceiling and grey carpet, lifted by gleaming copper wall lights and plush loungers.

The treatment rooms complete the Scandinavian revival and Nordic retreat feel. Taking inspiration from the beautiful surroundings, the outdoors seamlessly blend with the spa interior. The Falls Spa is a natural haven where water inspires the fluidity of the spa design and treatments; from the soothing rhythm of the Lodore Falls waterfall, to the reflective tranquillity of Derwentwater.
